NEBOSH General Certificate

The NEBOSH National General Certificate is recognised as the standard qualification in health and safety for the non-safety specialist.

Who should attend?

Non-specialists in health and safety who require sound initial training leading to a basic recognised qualification through examination and assessment. These would include managers and supervisors, safety representatives and representatives of employee safety.

Learning Outcomes

The intended learning outcome is detailed in the course guide produced by NEBOSH. This is summarised as follows:

- Identify common hazards in the workplace and advise on appropriate remedial actions
- Advise on appropriate action to minimise fire risks and to develop fire procedures
- Assist in the preparation, review and monitoring of safety policy and procedures including pro-active and reactive strategies, training audits and safety committees etc.
- Investigate accidents and other incidents, prepare reports making cost effective proposals to prevent recurrence
- Identify the main requirements of legislation and codes of practice
- Maintain records and information sources to advise management
- Communicate effectively on health and safety matters including the use of reports etc.
- Undertake effective workplace inspections and recommend cost effective remedial action
- Describe human and organisational factors affecting health and safety performance assessment

Programme outline includes

Civil/Criminal Law
